

RAVINDRA (ALIAS RAVI) KALE:

Qualified as an Electrical Engineer from University of Mumbai, Ravi is linked with the Healthcare industry since 1986.

He was fortunate to have begun his career in Information Technology with CMC Limited, where he obtained his basic lessons in software programming, design concepts and bid management. After a spell of over 10 years, he joined a large IT consulting company where he headed the Y2K business and software Migration and Re-Engineering projects. His extensive travels to countries like the USA, UK, Australia and most prominently Japan, gave him a broad outlook and an understanding of business cultures. Ravi has spent over 2 decades in IT, before stabilizing in Healthcare Education.

Initially it was to automate Diagnostic (Pathology & Microbiology) Labs. Later during early 1990s, he was involved with Billing and Administration software for a mid-sized hospital where it was in use until 2018. During mid-1990s, he worked with a Singapore based entrepreneur to develop a solution for the equipment servicing used by the Healthcare Instrument manufacturers.

Since 2006, he is associated with the Healthcare Education opportunities and has remained fully focused on this until now.

Having dabbled in various aspects of Under-Graduate, Post-Graduate and professional education in Medicine, he is currently concentrating on building academic relationships with large healthcare institutions, hospitals, associations as well as expert faculty members, who could create content for Online courses or be mentors in short term clinical rotations.

He is also working as a team member in transitioning the company to an aggregation model, wherein Quexst would be able to expose the learner to worldwide fellowships or other learning opportunities, which are absolutely relevant for his profile. One of the roles he performs within the company is to promotion and marketing using digital means.

Healthcare in general and Healthcare education specifically is more of a passion to Ravi, just like it is, for many other members of Quexst. Ravi also happens to be a stakeholder and a director in Quexst since 2007. He enjoys listening to light and classical Indian music, along with reading English and Marathi literature of any type in his past time. Ravi stays with his family in Mumbai, India.
